

Hours Building

HOURS BUILDING

Once you have your Private Pilot Licence (PPL) you will need to build up a minimum of 150 hours flying time before you can commence your Commercial Pilot Licence (CPL) training.

If you already hold a PPL you probably have at least 50 hours flying time so you'll need to build up an additional 100 hours. Our Hours Building programme has been designed to help you achieve this in one of our latest Garmin 1000, glass cockpit aircraft.

The Hours Building programme combines Dual and Solo flying at one of our state-of-the art global Academies.

Key Elements of the training:

- > Duration: 15 weeks (subject to scheduling)
- > Type: Hours building towards CPL and IR training
- > Required Experience: PPL
- > Training: Single-Engine piston aircraft

Successful graduation from this programme will provide you with:

- > Sufficient flying time in Single-Engine aircraft to commence CPL IR flight training

Entry Criteria

To apply for this programme, you must meet the following requirements:

Age and height

- Aged 17 to apply.
- Aged 18 to commence training.

Costs & Funding

We understand the cost of training to become an airline pilot can be a significant financial investment, which is why we have launched the Modular ATPL programme. The Modular approach allows cadets to study for one Module at a time and only pay as they train.

Contact us at pilotcareers.cts@L3Harris.com for course cost.

What is included in the price?

- > Airport fees
- > Air travel to allocated training locations (if applicable)
- > Return transfer to from airport to training location (if applicable)
- > Uniform

Additional Costs (to consider):

- > Accommodation (if required)
- > Flight training equipment
- > English language (IELTS) test (if applicable)
- > Class 1 or 2 Medical
- > Daily transport cost from accommodation to training location (if applicable)
- > Food and personal living
- > Personal travel
- > Insurances

Selection Process:

If you are a PPL holder you will not be required to undertake selection (subject to log book review by our selection team).
