

Integrated ATPL Training

£94,500

Our Airline Transport Pilot Licence (ATPL) programme is designed to prepare you for the role of First Officer with a commercial airline. Throughout your training the entire focus will be on preparing you for your future airline pilot career.

All of our pilot training programmes are airline-focused from day one. We will teach you to think, behave and communicate like a professional airline pilot in preparation for your progression to the flight deck. On successful completion of the course you will graduate with a “frozen” ATPL issued by U.K. Civil Aviation Authority (UKCAA) or European Union Aviation Safety Agency (EASA).

Key elements of the training:

- > Status: Full-time
- > Duration: Approximately 70 weeks
- > Type: Airline Transport Pilot Licence (ATPL)
- > Required experience: Little or none
- > Training: Latest-generation devices, simulators and aircraft

Successful graduation from this programme will provide you with:

- > ATPL Theoretical Knowledge training
- > Commercial Pilot Licence with Multi-Engine Instrument Rating (CPL/IR/MEP)
- > Airline Pilot Standards Multi-Crew Cooperation (APS MCC)
- > Upset Prevention and Recovery Training (UPRT)

These items combined are known as a “frozen” ATPL which is the minimum entry qualification to commence Type Rating and Line Training with an airline.
